What is Kabbalah?

This is an extremely important question for the answer will validate the importance of Kabbalah to you. Keep in mind Kabbalah is for all of mankind<sup>1</sup>. The Jews preserved its study<sup>2</sup> for the world's sake. So the world owes a great debt of gratitude to the Jews for that preservation.

Here is the simplest I can make it. Kabbalah means, "Received". This reception is via a connection between the Creator and us. Since we are all connected to the Creator, whether we want to be or not, we are always in a receptive mode.

Now we can ignore that reception to varying degrees, which is part of our free will; that being a total ignoring, partial reception, or total reception<sup>3</sup>. So the real challenging question is, "Are we ready to listen and to what degree?"

Kabbalah, the reception, is the cure for all of the world's ills. The study/contemplation of Kabbalah will give us answers to our trials and tribulations as individuals and as mankind as a whole.

<sup>1</sup> Kabbalah is not a religion or belongs to a religion. It is a seeking ultimate truth that no religion can contain nor communicate. In reality it does not matter which religion you come from.

<sup>3</sup> Total reception is theoretically possible. However, I would suspect all of us cannot handle such a situation.
